Burt-Watts recently completed the tenant finish-out of Austin's new HealthYes! headquarter facility. We enjoyed working on behalf of and in collaboration with the HealthYes! team. They made decisions quickly and assisted us with our efforts to deliver the project based on its key objectives.

When challenges arose, the HealthYes! team worked with us to get issues resolved.

The new facility incorporated a unique, intricate color scheme which required "hands on" participation by HealthYes!, as well as numerous technologically advanced medical equipment systems. The team was collaborative, focused and professional throughout the process.

HealthYes!' new headquarters was a success—and it demonstrates how companies and people can work together to get a project done through a shared vision.
